THREE VICTIMS OF REAR END COLLISION

Two Freights Come Together Near Bardwell at Night and Strew Wreckage For Yards

Members of Both Crews Are From Jack- son, Tenn., and Are Taken to Fulton for Treatment

UNKNOWN TRAMP CRUSHED TO DEATH

THE KILLED.

Unknown white tramp, stealing a ride.

THE FATALITY INJURED.

William R. Peague, flagman, of Jackson, Tenn.

THE SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Tom Scott, colored, brakeman, of Jackson, Tenn.

Lee Merritt, engineer, of Jackson, Tenn.

He was partly stunned, but when picked up speedily revived.

His fireman, C. H. Hogan, was not so fortunate. He was caught in the crash and crushed in the body, his injuries being pronounced fatal from the first.

William R. Peague, flagman on No. 658 was caught in the caboose and fatally crushed. He was unconscious when his mangled body was taken from the splintered caboose.

The body of the unknown white tramp, a "trespasser," was next discovered. It was under overturned cars, and death apparently had been instantaneous.

Tom Scott, colored, a brakeman on No. 659, was thrown from the train when the crash came, and fell on his left shoulder, dislocating it. He was also badly bruised, but is not fatally injured.

Physicians from Cairo and Fulton were dispatched to the scene, and with the assistance of Bardwell surgeons cared for the injured. They were removed to Fulton as quickly as possible, and from there will be taken home to Jackson, Tenn.

Officials from Fulton have been on the scene constantly since the wreck superintending the work. Trainmaster T. L. Dubbs, of the Fulton district received a partial report of the disaster this morning. He stated that the cause of the accident was not known, and would not be announced by the road until after the investigation. It is understood, however, that the crew on the 659 ran by a stopping point. Another report is out to the effect that the crew of No. 658 had overlooked orders. Both reports were denied, however, by officials.

Fireman Hogan and Engineer Merritt are well known here.

Nashville Trains Detoured.

Because of the wreck at Bardwell the fast flyers from St. Louis to Nashville over the Illinois Central and Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis had to be detoured via Paducah this morning, and the prettiest trains on the southern lines of the road proved novelties in this section. Long brilliantly lighted cars pulled by the biggest and most powerful Pacific type locomotives were detoured from East Cairo, to Paducah, and then Fulton, and then Nashville, via Martin Tenn. Manifest trains with dozens of cars came through to give yard men more trouble.

A hurry order was received from Bardwell to send the Paducah wrecking crew to the scene. The Fulton wrecker was en route to the scene, having received the same emergency orders.

Without any delay the crews began working. Volunteers from Bardwell assisted in the work of clearing the wreck, but from the outset a 12 hour blockade order was bulletined. This necessitated the detouring of the main line passenger trains and the Dixie flyer, No. 203, passed through Paducah from East Cairo to Fulton at 6:30 o'clock. At 6:50 the north bound flyer, No. 204, passed. Manifest freight trains and every class of train came through Paducah, and local yard men had their hands full handling the emergency business.

The Injured Rescued.

Torches served to illuminate the scene of the wreck and the work of wrecking was gone about with feverish interest.

Engineer Lee Merritt reversed his engine and jumped when he saw the lights of the train ahead. In alighting he sustained two scalp wounds.

German Lutheran Pastor Will Leave

On Account of His Declining Health

Members of the German Lutheran church will soon lose their pastor, the Rev. A. C. Iken. A meeting of the congregation has been called by the officers of the church for Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock when his resignation will be handed to them for their acceptance. Those that know of his action express much regret at his departure, and the officers have tried to get his consent to remain; but failing health makes his action necessary. His resignation will become effective as soon as possible for the church to secure a pastor to assume charge. Officers will begin efforts in this direction at once. From here the Rev. A. C. Iken will return to his former home, Wilford, Iowa, where he will rest. He accepted the call here two and a half years ago and in his pastorate has done much for the church and city. Perfect harmony exists among the members, and the membership roll has increased under his guidance.

OUR OLLIE IS HURT WHILE PEACE-MAKING IN THE LOWER HOUSE

Washington, Jan. 12.—Ollie James was carrying around a badly swollen finger today as a result of his participation as a peacemaker in the fracas. Neither of the combatants suffered any injury. It was suggested today that the next Nobel peace prize should be awarded to James. His tackle was fine, but a little high. The big Kentuckian is now being called by the new title, "The Great Pacifier." Representative Don Calvin Edwards was enjoying the honor of presiding over the house for the first time when the "scrap" between Gaines and Mahon began. Just as the first words passed Representative Mann, chairman of the committee of the whole, returned and resumed the gavel. If he had not shown up Edwards would have been the referee of the hottest verbal combat at this session.

UNION MAY FINE.

Boston, Jan. 12.—One of the most sweeping labor decisions rendered in this state was handed down today by Judge Caswell of the superior court. He holds that a labor union has the right to fine any member who does not accede to the demand of the union to quit work in an establishment where a strike is in progress.

REPLY

MADE TO GOVERNOR DENEEN BY PRESIDENT HARAHAH.

Says Illinois Central Has No Desire to Defraud State and Pays Full Taxes.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—J. T. Harahan, president of the Illinois Central, issued a statement replying to the special message sent by Governor Deneen to the Illinois legislature asking for an appropriation of $150,000 to cover the expense of litigation in an effort to secure the payment by the Illinois Central to the state of Illinois back taxes. The railroad already has paid yearly, what Harahan declares to be the correct amount of taxes to this state, but which, the governor maintains, is far from being the right amount according to the charter of the railroad as he interprets it.

Harahan in his statement says that ever since the Illinois Central's semi-annual reports have been made, setting forth each month the amount and source of revenue on which the state received its 7 per cent, the amount required by law, the railroad has never concealed any of its operations, the books have been open for inspection at all times and the manner of doing all this has been satisfactory to all former governors. He insists that the company has no intention or desire to "avoid the full payment of the state's share of its revenue."

COUNTY BOARD

Has Completed Assessment of Two Districts.

The board of county tax book supervisors will this afternoon finish its first week's work, having finished the first and second districts in the county. The board works by districts and it requires about six weeks to complete a review of the books. It was stated today that the raises made in the two districts gone over are not large, about the same percent as last year's raise.

CAVALRY SERGEANT IS IN RECRUITING OFFICE

Sergeant S. L. Bolden, of the Eleventh cavalry Des Moines, Ia., arrived last night from Evansville to relieve Sergeant Blake at the local recruiting station. Next Thursday Sergeant Blake will go to Cairo to open a recruiting station, which Sergeant Bolden will have charge of later.

There is only one kind of a newspaper circulation statement that is worth any consideration and that is the daily detailed statement. The Sun is the only Paducah paper printing such a statement.

NEARLY MILLION BANK CLEARINGS

Concludes Business of Paducah for Year 1906

Shows That Merchants Do Not Over Estimate Holiday Business in This City.

THE JOBBERS ARE SETTLING UP.

Bank clearings . . . $900,083
Same week last year . . 746,628
Increase . . . . . $153,455

Nine hundred thousand dollars bank clearings this week culminate largely the business transactions of 1906. The week has been a clearing time for not only business enterprises generally, but for a multitude of individuals. The wholesale and manufacturing concerns are closing their accounts with the sources of their products, and the retail merchants are closing their accounts in turn with the wholesale and manufacturing concerns. Checks have been swapped and the bank clearings show the effect.

The weather has been such, that the merchants could attend to their accounts with the jobbers, retail trade having been sluggish and wholesale movements dull. For the first time in a month all offices have had breathing time to take a hand in winding up the books for 1906.

The increase is final and probably the best proof of the volume and quality of business in 1906. It shows that the merchants were not mistaken in their buying for the holiday trade, and that the people have plenty of money. The local clearance sales have moved considerable goods yet here as in the wholesale and manufacturing lines the reaction from the intense activity of December is evident.

The clearings next week, while they will be affected by the same cause that operated this week, closing up accounts, will rest more on the intrinsic business of the new year. Tobacco movements continue but a decreased volume.

CZAR PROSTRATED BY FEAR OF DEATH

St. Petersburg, Jan. 12.—It was stated on good authority today that the news of the latest Terrorist crime had caused the czar to collapse completely and that he was suffering from absolute nervous prostration, so that the palace physician despaired of his recovery unless he took a trip abroad. The czar is firmly convinced that spies are everywhere in his entourage and that his guards are traitors. The men who struck down Count Ignatieff, General Von Der Launitz, General Pavloff and Colonel Andreieff, could hardly have carried out their plots without assistance from persons close to the officials.

SMITH IS MISSING; HARGIS' ALARMED

Jackson, Ky., Jan. 12.—John Smith, who was jointly indicted with Judge Hargis and others for the murder of Dr. Cox, and whose confession was published yesterday, is missing. The Hargis are much alarmed, as they are on his bond for over $30,000 for his appearance in court.

USING WET SAND.

Contractors Obey Injunction to Hurry Paving.

Laying brick with wet sand is a condition forced on contractors paving Broadway between Fourth and Fifth streets, and this morning an extra force of men was put to work on the job. The board of public works wishes the work done at once. "We will finish the laying of brick today," a foreman stated. "We will pour in the asphaltum fillet tomorrow. If the authorities will let us work on Sunday, in order to finish the work at once."

GRAIN MARKET.

WHARFBOAT WAS SINKING FROM TOO HEAVY LOADING

ATTEMPT TO MURDER COUNT WITTE AT HOME. FOILED BY HIS FRIENDS

London, Jan. 12.—Four Russian policemen were shot to death and three wounded after an attempt to kill Count Witte, former premier of Russia, in his home, at St. Petersburg, according to a dispatch received by the Exchange Telegraph company. Count Witte was informed by his friends among the revolutionists of a plot against his life. Officers followed the would-be assassins to the home. They tried to enter when lights were extinguished. The revolutionists opened fire, killing four and wounding three, and escaped.

CATTLE STAMPEDE.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Jan. 12.—A terrible blizzard is raging today in the cattle center of the Indian Territory. Over a thousand head of cattle were found dead on the ranges, which are covered with deep snow. Ten thousand cattle looking for shelter from the blizzard broke into the city of Lethbridge in a wild stampede.

DOG DECLINES

TO ASSOCIATE WITH POLICEMAN
IN UNIFORM.

Brass Buttons and His Helmet Sever
Their Friendship of Long Standing.

Policemen often get hard knocks, but the unkindest of all is that of Patrolman Sam Howell received from his pet dog "Tramp." He is now debating on whether he would rather be a beer wagon driver or a policeman.

Patrolman Howell two years ago made friends with a cur. He at the time was driver of a beer wagon, and "Tramp" was with him all the time. Wherever Howell was seen, "Tramp" was somewhere near, and no two friends were more constantly together.

Howell was appointed a policeman and a few days later came home with a large bundle under his arm. Tramp barked joyously as he entered his house, but it was a different tune the canine howled when his master made his exit.

Dressed in blue with shining brass buttons Howell descended the steps. Tramp looked aghast, and walking cautiously up to his master sniffed once or twice, looked about in an uncertain manner, and finally walked silently away.

From that day "Tramp" has had nothing to do with his former master. He "shook" him cold, and now follows Howell's son, who carries messages for the Western Union Telegraph company.

RED MEN CONTEST.

Two Teams Will Race to Get One Hundred Members.

The Red Men's lodge last night divided its members into two teams under Clarence Householder and William Buck and will start a contest to end the first Friday in April for 100 new members. The team that gets the first 100 new pale faces will be liberally rewarded.

WILL MOVE JAN. 21.

I. C. Downtown Ticket Office Nearing Completion.

Mr. John Donovan, agent for the local Illinois Central, will move into his new office in the Palmer House block January 21. The handsome fixtures are rapidly being installed, and when finished the office will be far be the handsomest in Paducah.

WEATHER—Rain followed by clearing, colder tonight, Sunday fair and decidedly colder. The highest temperature reached yesterday was 63 and the lowest today was 45.

Syphon Pump on the Steamer Kentucky All That Saved Her From Going to Bottom

Night Watchman Found Water Pouring Into Hull Through Open Seams Caused By Strain

HENRY HARLEY SPRINGS BAD LEAK

Too heavy loading in one part of the Paducah wharfboat caused the north end of the boat to sink last night, until the timbers holding the heavy gangways, were under water, and in a short while the hull of the boat was several feet deep in water. The presence of the steamer Kentucky probably is all that saved the boat from sinking with its cargo of accumulated freight worth between $5,000 and $10,000.

At 12:30 o'clock John Street, night wharfmaster, while on one of his rounds of inspection he makes every night to see that all is well, discovered that the floats which belong under the gangway at the north end of the boat, to help support it were nearly submerged. He tried vainly for a while to pump them out with a hand pump, when the sound of water entering the wharfboat in a large stream, made him go down into the hull of the wharfboat to investigate.

Entering the hull at the extreme south end several hundred feet from the leak, he advanced through the dark passage, but before he had gone many steps he found himself up to his knees in water, and could hear the water rushing into the hull.

By this time the floats supporting the gangway, had filled and drifted out from under it, throwing the whole weight of the heavy steel and wood gangway onto the edge of the wharfboat where the leak was. The wharfboat sank until the edge of the narrow platform which surrounds it was touching the river.

The first mate on the Kentucky, which was lying at the wharfboat, was roused by the commotion and immediately routed out the rousters, setting them to work moving the peanuts from the side of the wharfboat which was sagging, to the Kentucky. This lightened the boat somewhat.

The towboat Fannie Wallace had been notified by this time to come to the assistance of the wharfboat, but the storm which was at its height then, swept the Fannie Wallace out into the river, and it could not be headed around before it had been carried to Brookport, not returning to the city until this morning.

If there had not been a syphon pump on the Kentucky, nothing could have saved the wharfboat. This was procured, a hole knocked through the floor of the wharfboat where it was sagging the most, and the banked fire which is kept at night under the wharfboat boilers was stirred up.

The pumping started at 2:30 o'clock last night and continued until 7 o'clock this morning, when sufficient water had been pumped out to allow the boat to right itself. It was then discovered that the water had not entered through the seams of the boat, but through the large cracks caused by the big timbers supporting the gangway, being pulled out of place by the strain.

The strain was caused by 20 or 30 hogheads of tobacco weighing two thousand pounds each being placed in one part of the wharfboat, without any counteracting weight on the other side. On top of the tobacco, 1,400 sacks of peanuts were placed yesterday afternoon increasing the weight 70 tons. It was too much weight on one side and the boat was pressed down until the edge touched the river. There were nearly 100 tons of freight on the one spot.

The steamer Dick Fowler was at the wharf at the time, but the rousters went up the hill without any concern as to the fate of the wharfboat. The rousters of the Kentucky under direction of head mate William Everts, though they had worked all day aided materially by removing the peanuts. Today the wharfboat is about as usual.

Coincident with the threatened sinking of the wharfboat, the steamer Henry Harley, lying against the old wharfboat with a broken wheel, sprung a bad leak and had listed heavily on one side before the pumps could be started. Captain Thomas Armstrong does not know what caused the leak as there was no water in the hull when he went to bed. It looked for a while as if that steamer would sink but energetic action kept the water down.

JUST PLAYIN'

But Snake Wade Was Locked Up By Policemen.

Groveling in fear at the feet of her dusky husband, Mary Wade begged for mercy from "Snake" Wade who was standing over her flourishing a big butcher knife preparatory to "carving her," when Patrolman Dick Wood and Walter Shelby, then off duty, rushed to the scene and rescued the terrorized female at 10 o'clock this morning.

Wade and his wife quarreled on Jefferson street near Second street, and pedestrians ran to the market house declaring a woman was being carved into small bits. The patrolmen hastened to the scene and Wade declared he was "jes' playin'" when the police station was reached. A charge of disorderly conduct was lodged against him.

Morton Adeock, in Arcadia.

In compliance with the request of Representative Louis Head, the State Breeders' association, will send the registered stallion, Victory, to Morton Adeock, of Arcadia. ## THEATRICAL NOTES

AT THE KENTUCKY.

Tonight, Willard Mack and Maude Leone in "Mysterious Mr. Raffles." Tuesday night, Walker Whiteside in "The Magic Melody."

Friday night, "The Missouri Girl."

Saturday Matinee and night, Tim Murphy in "A Corner in Coffee."

"All-of-a-Sudden Peggy."

Miss Henrietta Crosman's popularity in Paducah was given an impetus by her appearance last night in her latest, "All-of-a-Sudden Peggy." The piece is so far ahead of her adaptation of the "A Scrap of Paper," in which she appeared last year, and the role of Peggy is so much more becoming to Miss Crosman, that her admirers were delighted. The role and the situations afford unlimited scope for the display of those fascinating qualities, which are the foundation of Miss Crosman's reputation. In the character of the romping, happy Irish girl Miss Crosman is at home, and her pretty smile, infectious laugh, and merry eyes, make her the ideal for such impersonations. The piece is a farce and it goes with a dash and vim that keep the house in an uproar. Peggy in order to promote her mother's marriage to Anthony, Lord Cracken-thorpe, fellow of entomology, pretends to marry the Hon. Jimmy Kippel, his brother. She goes to his apartments in his absence and falls asleep. The next morning she is there when Jimmy's mother and uncle enter. The uncle, meddlesome and inefficient, has published the fact of the supposed marriage in the Post. The scenes that attend the unraveling, ending happily in Jimmy and Peggy's marriage, can be imagined. There is nothing subdued or repressed about the performance. Peggy is not the only one in the play who is "all-of-a-sudden." Everybody seems to be striving to emulate her example. They walk fast, they talk fast and act to the limit of their powers—act almost too much at times—but that sounds unfair, because the whole performance last night was so delightful. The company is excellent, even to those minor roles of servants. But overtopping everyone, Ernest Stallard, as Anthony, the fellow of entomology, stands out conspicuously in the cast, the very contrast of his more subdued methods being to his advantage. He has an exquisite character part, and in expression, voice and manner, humor seemed to exude from him. His way of saying "Why not? Way not?" never failed to bring a laugh.

Frank Gilmore, as the Hon. Jimmy, was agreeable. J. R. Cranford, with his English accent, missed no opportunities as Major Archie Phipps, the meddlesome uncle, Ann Warrington, as the Hon. Mrs. Colquhoun, took the audience by storm in her one scene. Ida Waterman, as Mrs. O'Mara, Peggy's mother, was excellent. Kate Meek, as Mrs. Cracken-thorpe, Jane Marbury, as The Hon. Millicent Kippel, and the others distinguished themselves as opportunely offered.

End of Stock.

With the performance of "Raffles" tonight the Willard Mack-Maude Leone company closes its engagement of four nights at The Kentucky. It is needless to say that when this company returns it will be greeted with large houses. This is the first visit of the company, although Mr. Mack has been here with one night stand shows. The character of "Raffles" the amateur crackman is one of Mr. Mack's best bits.

"The Magic Melody."

The promise contained in the first act of the interrupted performance of "The Magic Melody" on Wednesday, says the Arkansas Gazette, of Little Rock was abundantly fulfilled at the complete presentation of the play at the Capital theater last night at the hands of Walker Whiteside and an exceptionally good company. "The Magic Melody" is a rarely beautiful play. It is a charming love story, but it is much more than that. It is a wonderful character play, and it is a sermon, too, the lesson of which is that money and power are not all in this world worth striving for, and that the man of soul and honor and a genius, although poor withal, can afford to scorn and spurn with contempt the rich and powerful magnate whose heart is frozen and who has crushed every holy sentiment and feeling for humanity out of his being—even though that man be his father. It is signally clever alike in construction, in its climaxes and the spoken word. It is thoroughly pleasing, refining and uplifting.

Only seven people are required to present it, but there is more than one star. Almost every role is a character study and they are splendidly taken. It is by no means a one-man play. There is that delightful old German lady of the old school, motherly, unselfish and homelike, bringing in her coffee and coffee cake and lapsing into her native tongue in moments of excitement—a character most worthily represented by Miss Martha George.

Then, there is Pietro Gianti, once a famous singer, haunted by the memories of his lost sweetheart, his lost voice, his lost fame, and thirsting for his long-delayed vengeance. Richard Sherman has this difficult role, and, in make-up, costume, accent and gesture, he plays it true to the life, so that he earned much of the generous applause the play evoked.

Miss Maude Saaw has the role of Clara Douglas, a breezy, independent, outspoken, free-hearted American girl, and hers is also quite a delightful bit of character work.

As Helmer, the ambitious young violinist, whom the world does not want because, having genius, he has no name, hungry for the chance which is so long in coming, knowing his unrequited power and the knowledge rendering him sometimes cynical, loving with an honest heart, kind even to stray curs, true to the memory of his dead mother and scorning the wealth and name of the father who has deserted her, Walker Whiteside gives a most perfect characterization. His make-up is wonderfully realistic.

"Missouri Girl."

The Missouri Girl is a comedy that has stood the test of eleven years and has never failed to please. It will be the offering at the Kentucky Friday night.

This production is being advertised as being a "great fun event" and people who have seen the show say that the phrase has been aptly selected. From the first to the last the play is an avalanche of laughter. Zeke Dobson, the gawky country lad, is chief fun maker. In the second act, the birthday party scene gives an opportunity for the introduction of some excellent vaudeville "stunts", and here again, Zeke makes a big hit with his "clothesoppper" dance.

Tim Murphy.

Mr. Tim Murphy is to appear at The Kentucky on Saturday matinee and night, when he will be seen here for the first time in his latest creation, Col. Jim Johnson, the South American coffee king, in Owen Davis' dramatization of Cyrus Townsend Brady's delightful story, "A Corner in Coffee." The play is a comedy pure and simple, but no character that Mr. Murphy portrays, however amusing and fancifully spun, is lacking in the human qualities which give verity and balance. So it is not surprising to hear that Mr. Murphy makes the old colonel a figure of naturalness as well as humor, virile as well as funny, and sometimes touches the wells of tears as surely as he does the springs of laughter. Since the deaths of Joseph Jefferson and Sol Smith Russell there remains no one who portrays the honest growths of our native soil with so subtle an appreciation of the April weather of human nature as Tim Murphy. Strength without heroics, sympathy without sentimentality, laughter without buffoonery, have marked this artist's career of splen-d'd endeavor and achievement. "A Corner in Coffee" is just the sort of play Tim Murphy's legion of admirers expect of him and love to see. It is an American comedy on a background of vital current American issues. Italy and Mexico and other Latin countries have their lottery, which is one of the main arteries of national life. Puritanical American disavows a lottery but maintains a huge gambling and speculating machine known as Wall street, nestling under the charitable wings of finance. Wall street is the most discussed topic in our national life. "A Corner in Coffee" is a play about Wall street, a panorama of those intimate manipulations of millions and billions, which ride to ruin or glut with gold thousands a day.

"The Royal Chef."

"The Royal Chef" will appear at the Kentucky January 21. This much heralded musical comedy had its first presentation at the Garrick theater, Calcutta and with the exception of a run in New York and a short road tour last spring, has not been revealed only to the playgoers of those cities. Therefore Paducah will have the opportunity of seeing practically a brand new show and one that was one of the biggest successes of the past season. The cast includes such people as Harry Hermen, Oscar Ragland Osborne Clemson, Stanley Felch, Gertrude Hutcheson Elsie Frazee, Laurette, Madge Murray and others. Among the musical numbers are "O'Reilly", "Tale of the Tailless Frog", "Spirit of '76", "Let Me Go Back", "Strolling", "Mother Goose" and "A Rajah Bold."

A WONDERFUL POSTER

As a substantial evidence that Lithography is making rapid and wonderful strides the above cut is reproduced. It represents a new 24-sheet poster, measuring 106 inches in height and 238 inches in length, designed and executed by the United States Lithograph Company—the famous Russell-Morgan Print—of Cincinnati. It is Lithographed in 6 colors, pure gold bronze forming the background, and is said to be the most expensive and dignified poster ever placed on the bill-boards. This is the first instance in which gold bronze has successfully withstood the weather. The poster represents Mr. Charles B. Hanford surrounded by the numerous characters he has played, and is receiving much admiration for its beauty and artistic instructiveness.

Mr. Chas. B. Hanford will appear at The Kentucky as Marc Antony in Julius Caesar, January 30th.

The Week In Society.

THE DEBUTANTE.

This is the rhyme of the debutante,
Pretty and fine and straight,
Scorning the shams and the petty way
Of older women who make it pay Whether they work or whether they play;
The debutante elate,
Whom gods and men await
This winter day.

Proudly she tosses her pretty head,
Charming debutante;
Hurling her arrows of kindly wit,
Swift to the mark she loves to hit;
We do not mind it even a bit—
Our pretty debutante
Who laughs because she can't Make a sport of it.

Tall and straight as the lady birch,
This debutante so dear,
With a soul as fair and a heart as true
As the rose in her cheeks and eyes
so blue,
This girl is the girl for me and you.
Oh, debutante, I fear
To think what you will do
This coming year.

—Frank Fair.

Bride Popular Here.

Word has been received here by relatives of the marriage of Miss Ora Morehead, of Springfield, Tenn., to Mr. Combs Fort, of Augusta, Ga. The marriage took place in Nashville, Tenn., on New Year's day, and was a surprise to their host of friends.
The bride was returning from Lebanon, Tenn., where she had attended the wedding of a friend, and met Mr.
Fort in Nashville, where they were quickly married, going immediately to Augusta. They had been sweethearts for some time.

Mrs. Fort is a charming girl and very popular in Paducah where she has often visited. She is a niece of Mrs. Sue Anthony and Mr. W. A.
Martin, of this city, and has been the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Pat O'Brien at various times. Mr. Fort formerly lived in Springfield, but now travels out of Augusta for a prominent wholesale firm.

Entre Nous Club.

Miss Nell Holland entertained the Entre Nous club and a few outside guests very charmingly on Friday afternoon at her home on South Sixth ive with plants and flowers. The tally cards were decorated with dainty figures and clever sayings about cards.

The club prize, a pretty cut glass
nappy, was won by Miss Ethel Brooks.
Miss Sue Thompson captured the visitors' prize, an exquisite shower of violets. A delicious course-luncheon followed the game.

Magazine Club.

Miss Minnie Ratcliffe was hostess to the Magazine club on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs.
Charles K. Wheeler, on Kentucky avenue. It was an especially delightful meeting, with a large attendance of the club members and a complement of visitors.

From the Outlook Mrs. Saunders
A. Fowler gave an interesting article on "Mormonism" and was followed by Miss Ora Leigh, who for the past year has lived in Salt Lake City, with some graphic personal experience among the Mormons. Miss Leigh was a member of the Magazine club when living in Paducah. Miss Frances Gould reported an able article by Prof. Edwin Mims, of Trinity college, Durham, N. C., on "General Lee's Place in History" from the January magazine number of Outlook. Mrs.
Eli G. Boone also represented the Outlook with a fine account of the Leland Stanford university. Miss Helen Lowry gave a character sketch of Isben from the North American Review, and Mrs. Frank Scott featured "Esperanto," the universal language, from the same magazine. Mrs.
Bertie Campbell told interestingly of Robert Louis Stevenson and Fanny Osbourne in Hubbard's "Little Journeys to the Homes of Great Lovers".
series. Mrs. Robert Becker Phillips gave very attractively the story,
"Turned Out to Grass," from the Harper's magazine.

A delightful two-course luncheon was served in the dining room. The table was a charming effect in red, with the red carnations, red shaded

Card Party on Jackson Day.

Mrs. Luke Russell and her sister, Miss Anne Sherrill Baird, were the gracious hostesses of a charming card party on Tuesday afternoon in celebration of Jackson Day, and the idea was carried throughout in the decorations, tallies and prizes.

The graceful "Jackson vine" and the southern pine were used effectively in the decorations of the party rooms. The tally cards were souvenir post-cards of the equestrian statue of Jackson. The first prize, a salad fork, went to Mrs. I. D. Wilcox. The lone-hand prize, an engraving of Jackson's home, the "Hermitage," was taken by Mrs. William Marble. The consolation prize, a Jackson souvenir spoon, was won by Miss Charibel Rieke in a cut with all the guests.

Delightful punch was served from an artistic writing room upstairs before won by Mrs. James Utterback. The consolation prize, a piece of royal Nippon ware, went to Miss

Removal Sale of A. Pollock's Jewelry Store

About February 15th we will take possession of our new store room—now occupied by the Great Pacific Tea and Coffee Co., 333 Broadway. In the meantime we have made startling reductions on our entire line of Watches, Diamonds and Jewelry.
This for two reasons: First, we wish to move as little as possible of the present and, when we get into our new location, we mean to have a clean, new stock. If you need anything in our line give us a call; for we have made a cut of 50 per cent in many instances.

Daily Thought.

"The force of great deeds rests on small personal fidelities."

MEN AND FIGURES.

When a Democratic mayor writes the history of a Republican council and that Democratic mayor understands the subtleties of his mother tongue as Mayor Yeiser does, the light of his exposition is likely to throw the kindest of rays on the administration and the cruel violet ray into the legislative department.

He threw something of this kind into the recent general council in his annual message last night, and had it not been for one gratuitous bit of fallacy designed to excuse the board of public works, the figures might have been allowed to stand as he characterized them—"a deficit of $44,045.36." It would be well for the present general council to heed the executive warning, for his words indicate that the board of public works has a right to incur obligations to the limit of its own estimate regardless of the appropriation made by the general council.

The board of public works at the beginning of the year, 1906, asked for $28,000. It was given $18,000. At the close of the year there was a deficit in the street department of $7,776.61. Now listen to the words of Mayor Yeiser:

"The apportionment statement shows many accounts overdrawn, the leading one being the street department, for $7,776.61, caused by the council cutting down the appropriation asked for by the board of public works from $28,000 to $18,000."

How differently it would have sounded, and yet accurately it would have been stated, had Mayor Yeiser said, the deficit was "caused by the board of public works failing to keep within its apportionment."

Mayor Yeiser and the board of public works know that the deficit was caused by the board of public works not keeping within the limit of its appropriation, and this was the very point called to the attention of the general council yesterday by THE SUN. The board may have seen where it could spend $28,000 to advantage, but it was only allowed $18,000. This allowance was made to the board of public works last January and the board was cognizant of the amount it was authorized to spend. It was then the duty of the board to "cut its coat according to the cloth."

According to the reasoning of the mayor, if this general council does not give the board of public works $28,000 the board will be justified into causing an overdraft, and the difference between the amount apportioned and the amount of obligations incurred, may be excused as, "caused by the council cutting down the appropriation asked for by the board of public works."

Now, we had been willing to accept the excuse, that the board accomplished permanent improvements with the excess that justified the obligation, but we are not willing to stand for the excuse that the general council was to blame. Overdrafts in all the other departments, it is significant, were caused by extraordinary expenditures, and for every one of them except judgment and costs, some permanent, public benefit may be cited.

At the beginning of the last year the recent general council found a floating debt of $10,640.11, so a deficit is not so unusual. The general council paid it. This Mayor Yeiser mentioned, but he did refer to the splendid equipment of the Paducah city lighting plant, which was purchased at a cost of $11,000 in face of opposition, which would have insisted on more costly machinery. There was an additional expense of some $7,000 for installing the apparatus. All was paid except $3,780, and this amount is outstanding according to the terms of the purchase. Thus in $11,556.61 of the floating debt accounted for. And the lighting plant improvement was an extraordinary expense not considered at the beginning of the year.

Riverside hospital overdraw its account $6,053.57, "by reason of many improvements being ordered, that were not contemplated in the beginning of the year."

For the purpose of widening Tenth street, a matter that scarce permitted of delay, an unexpected indebtedness of $7,000 was incurred.

Then we come to the Cornelia Johnson judgment and costs, which amounted to $5,006.66. This case had not been disposed of in the court of appeals at the commencement of the year. The preceding council had not seen fit to provide for it, and the last council did not. It was paid by a note during the last month of the year, thus throwing the responsibility for the $5,006.66 on the recent council instead of the incoming council.

The recent general council set aside $3,000 as a refund, which a former general council had accepted from the Cumberland Telephone company in pursuance of an agreement that the council went back on after spending the money.

Thus it is seen that wherever a deficit occurred there is some material benefit to be exhibited. The general council was economical and guarded the city's fund with care. The legislators managed the city's affairs at a saving of $18,000 to the taxpayers, as compared with their predecessors, who levied a rate of 20 cents more. The actual running expenses of the city were paid easily out of the $1.65 levy. The overdrafts were incurred for extraordinary improvements, and in incurring this indebtedness the councilmen and aldermen showed their courage and honesty. These improvements had to come, yet they could very well have allowed the lighting plant extension, the widening of Tenth street, the payment of the Johnson judgment, the tender to the telephone company, the improvement of the Riverside hospital and a dozen other matters go over until this year, for this council to bear. But they considered that the city government will continue indefinitely, and that the improvements should be acquired at once so that the citizens could enjoy their benefits. It was poor politics, because it affords their enemies an opportunity to misconstrue their conduct. But those men after incurring the debts in the open stood for re-election, and manifested their willingness to assume the burden of paying off the obligations.

If the present general council exhibits the fidelity, courage and economy, that were characteristic of its predecessor, the city will have cause for congratulation.

Just a word by way of post script.

Not one critic of the recent general council dares accuse it of extravagance. They point to a floating indebtedness of $4,045.36, but the only complaint is that the general council did not fix a rate of $1.85 instead of $1.65, a difference of $18,000 to the taxpayers. The finance committee figured that the usual current expenses of the city could be taken care of by the lesser rate, thus saving the taxpayers that $18,000. Some extraordinary improvements were made and for these indebtedness was incurred, but the general council did what it undertook to do with the $1.65 levy. For the excess there are improvements to show. How much worse off is the city? If the general council had levied the $18,000 more, that amount would have been apportioned among the departments and they would have spent just that much more in their operations, with probably no more to show for it than there now is. The last general council just saved the taxpayers $18,000.

CANNELTON, IND., IS PASSED

Thousands of people in Paducah doubtless will flock to the banks of the Ohio river about next Monday when Charles C. Oldrieve, is expected to arrive here, walking on the Ohio river.

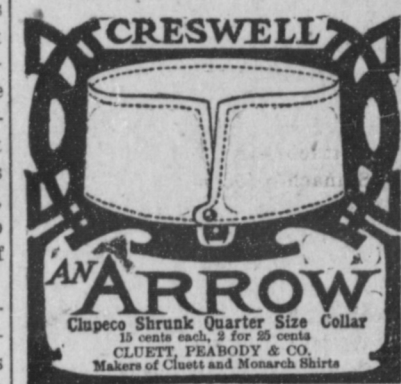

Prof. Charles C. Oldrieve, who is walking on the waters of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers from Cincinnati to New Orleans on a wager of $5,000, passed Jeffersonville, Ind., in good shape, and but a few hours behind his schedule time.

Oldrieve wears skids on his feet, each about three feet long and six inches wide. He accomplishes the feat of walking on the water, apparently without difficulty, using a motion similar to that of persons skating on the ice. As he arrived east of Jeffersonville boats tied up along the river shore greeted him with a din of whistles, and within a few minutes the banks on both sides of the river were lined with people by the unusual spectacle.

On January 9 Captain Charles W. Oldrieve arrived at Cannelton. If he travels on schedule time he should reach Cairo about next Wednesday.

GOOD ROADS.

Without knowing the details of the plan for wholesale improvement of the McCracken county roads, we wish to record ourselves on the side of the better roads movement, and pledge our support in advance to any honest, reasonable scheme for the permanent improvement of the county highways. Farmer and city man should join in support of the idea. Both will be benefited more than either realizes. It is customary among farmers not to consider the value of their own labor, that of their horses nor the wear and tear on their implements. The agricultural industry is not so highly organized nor is the economy of the business so nicely estimated, as is that of the city corporations. But just the same these elements do enter into the matter of profit and loss on the farm. For instance, eggs, butter, corn, oats, or whatever it may be bring a certain price in the market. The market is in the city. If the weather is bad and the roads impassable, the farmer must wait at home until it is possible to haul a heavy load to the city. In the meantime reserve supplies of the commodities may be called out by the price offered and by the time the roads are

WILD SWITCH ENGINE.

Charges Two Others in Yards at Princeton.

With snorts of rage switch engine No. 176, a brightly painted yard engine just sent to Princeton, Ky., sprang out from the turn table pit at Princeton at 2 o'clock this morning and charged on Nos. 36 and 120, two silent iron steeds standing on a passing track. With a crash the switch engine met them and in another second No. 36, which was struck, crashed into No. 1201, standing unconcerned behind it. The three engines locked, but the switch engine being alive, won out. A leaking throttle caused the disaster and the engines will be repaired at Princeton. No one was near the engine when it started up, and it showed no evidence of being defective when left by the hostlers. The damage will amount to several hundred dollars.

SHORT SESSION.

In sharp contrast to the board of aldermen's meeting the night before, the council called meeting last night was on the order of here it comes, there it goes, in dispatching business. The mayor's message was the most interesting feature of the meeting, which lasted only 40 minutes and the amendment to the license ordinance, making saloon licenses terminate every six months, was given first and second passage. It now but awaits the action of the aldermen whenever that body organizes and gets down to business.

Committee Meeting.

The committee on examination and course of study of the school board will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of drafting recommendations as to the number of teachers to be added to the High School faculty after the first term. There will be many more pupils entered into the High School after the first term, and it will require large teaching forces. It is probable that two new teachers will be recommended. The committee will also take up the matter of securing new desks for the High School auditorium.

Roadbed Is Soft.

Passengers on the Cairo-Paducah accommodation train this morning imagined they were on the high seas when the train took to some of the soft parts of the road bed. The rains have made the road bed soft in places, and at times passengers' hair stood on end for fear the train would sink into the earth or do a hand spring from the rails.
